Course: MATH-112-6: Calculus II - Spring 2024

Instructor: Alexis Newton *

Response Rate: 6/8 (75.00 %)

7 - Please comment on the strengths and weaknesses of the course:

Response Rate 6/8 (75%)

- Appropriate difficulty level for most students, but may need some more transition from Cal 1
- Went by really fast every class
- Strengths were that the tests were reasonably within the content that was taught.
- The final would have been incredibly difficult as a cumulative especially considering we had midterms for everything as well.
- None
- Good continuation of the calculus 2 course and flows nicely with how that class was set up into this one.

8 - Please comment on the strengths and weaknesses of the instructor:

Response Rate 6/8 (75%)

- Alexis is very nice. She organized each class well and explain all the concepts clearly.
- Loved this prof! Could tell she was prepared every class and the class notes were super helpful. However, a lot of times she would make mistakes on the board or in notes leading to student confusion.
- Was very helpful and available for help, but lacked enthusiasm for the material
- Extremely organized and the examples and notes were very helpful
- None - great instructor
- Alexis was great, very easy to talk to, made herself available whenever possible, and really understanding just overall.

9 - Math courses with lab sections are guided by our teaching assistants. If your course included a lab section, please comment on the strengths and weaknesses of the TA (please write N/A if this does not apply to you):

Response Rate 2/8 (25%)

10 - Would you recommend this course or instructor(s) to another student? Why or why not?

Response Rate 6/8 (75%)

- Yes
- Yes! She was great as long as u make sure to check her work sometimes.
- Yes, it was an easy class.
- yes, mainly because it is very helpful for other courses
- yes
- Yes, I enjoyed this course more than calculus one so why not continue if you have already taken calc 1. I would recommend Alexis again as she explained topics very to the point and straight forward, and was easy to find outside of the classroom for further explanation if needed.
